The Impossible Vs. The Possible!

Rarely, only at certain moments, one might get to a point where he/she wants only what they can not haveâ ¦

Whether it was a simple compliment, a hug, a date, or even a phone call!

This girl/guy end up in a dilemma: how can I have the "impossible"?

The struggle beginsâ ¦.

The inner emotions and feelings start getting in a muddle and as time passes by, he/she seems to forget the importance of what he/she can have or have already the "possible"â ¦

As days go by, distance grows, not from the other part, from the self, and the doors of chaos are openedâ ¦

Guilt, pain, sadness and desperation invade and settle in the daily life routine and happiness and comfort just dash outside the windows of the soul!

The truth of the matter is: Why don't we believe that what we can not have is simply not what we need?

Why can't we trust that the "impossible" is not meant for us?

We humans can be so naÃ¯ve sometimes!!! We are easily drifted towards the agony that life carries with its every turn and twistâ ¦ We are quickly drowned in its melancholyâ ¦

Giving up on someone or something might be the "courageous" thing to doâ ¦ Holding on could be the "cowardly" action we are trying to achieve!

Think about thatâ ¦ I know I amâ ¦.
