You Forever Mine

what hurts the most is being denied by him when your love with them is only one-sided when you hear those little things you dont want to hear starts you crying til the tears fall fast down your cheek for them few little words like 'they dont like you that way' hurts your heart so bad it is feels like your dying inside your insides being ripped apart and all your feelings stripped however your heart is still beating for them the one person who you are so wrapped around with and head over heels completely in love with so you will always believe that one day it will work for its meant to be and i hope i am right for the first moment in my life he is gone from my life and into anothers i will surely die inside without him to lean upon and love forever i will want for he is the one and only and you may say you dont even know what love even is or heartbreaking thoughts set into your mind but yes i do it is him that i see those thoughts and know my love is true and this just isnt another teenage crush on a guy that will never last for he love is worth fighting for and the tears will fade eventually when my hand is set right in his and he is walking right beside me
