Who cares about selling out in a bad economy

In this world we are living in a bad economy where people have to work three jobs just so that people can pay their rent for their crappy apartments. Now some people are saying it's the president's fault or it's the politicians or government or hell. It could even be that chick at subways who can never get your fucking sandwich order. Right even though you are telling her to her face that is not what I want, but the point is stop blaming people for the economy it happened so just get over it. It's time to go out and just try to survive by any way you can. The first thing you should do if you are a college graduate is do not expect to get the job you went to school for, and if you are a university grad then let me just tell you that you and my friend are fucked, because there are dozens of you out there and companies are maybe hiring one or two but hey don't worry McDonald's is always hiring. Now there are some people who say even though they are going through a tough time they will not sell out. Now what I can respect is that in this economy fuck the selling out if you need to eat do what you have to do. Hear is the rule if you can make it work then good for you but if you can't take that selling out vibe right what you feel and either throw or drown that fucker because your principles will not keep you fed or warm or a roof over your head. People it's time to start doing what you need to do to survive, now I'm not saying go rob a bank but if the only job out is a shitty job then take it, fuck your morals high if you can get this job then take it. In this economy we need to work together with and just suck it up because if we don't then our children children will grow up in a worse situation than we are in.
