

You deserve to know true love.

You deserve to know true love.

You deserve to know true love. I was sad when you said that you had never truly felt a deep romantic love. You deserve the kind of love that makes you weak in the knees and turns you on so bad that you can barely stand it. You deserve a woman who will steal your heart away. You deserve a woman who will whisper sweet French nothings in your ear. You deserve a woman who will make love to you by candle light as soft French music plays. True love does exist, and you deserve to know what it feels like, mon cher.

You deserve to know true love.

You deserve to know true love.
