

Whimper

Whimper

Poetry, of course can come in any form, length, style. I for one have trouble stopping a poem once I get started. Emotions and thoughts flowing onto the pages. For fun I like to add my twist on acronym poems. So I have a word that makes you think AND have a start/stopping point. I do these a lot for brain storming. Let me know how this is.

Whimper

W-rithing under you, legs and arms pinned.

H-elpless against your strength.

I-mmediately you enter me with great force.

M-uffled moans escape my lips, hindered by your mouth.

P-leasure captivates my thoughts.

E-very nerve is on fire when I start to shudder.

R-elease is imminent, we melt as one.
