Excerpt of Sarah and Nathan

Once again: this is just an excerpt

Nathan preview:

I bit my lip as Lavinia smiled at me. It was hard to resist anything she said with that smile. I hesitated, glancing at the door. "You sure it's okay" I asked quietly, knowing full well Sarah wouldn't be home for another 45 minutes. "How long will it take?"

She shrugged, "20 minutes tops..."

I took a deep breath, thinking it over. I wanted to keep her trust, but...

"Okay..." I breathed, pulling off my jeans and handed them to her, suddenly feeling self-conscious.

Her eye's widened and I felt myself turning a deep red.

"Okay" she smiled "Let's get to work."

Sarah preview:

Tears welled up in my eyes immediately once I walked into the guestroom. Nathan was just pulling up and zipping his pants as I did. Lavinia, the girl who was afraid to be touched - afraid of men - just...

"Sarah!" Nathan's eyes widened and he looked quickly between me and the imposter. I shook my head at him, eyes closed. No..this wasn't real! It couldn't be!

"Sarah i-it's not what-"

"What I think?!" I choked, not bothering to wipe away the tears. I couldn't stand to look at him anymore. He betrayed me - and I'll do the same. I'll do what I've always wanted - Jay. Sorry, Liv...
