triggering frequency

By : Tawroh

under the influence of good music i feel like a scarred membrane, i get infected with it but i color it in my perspective.

there is a sound, a note, sometimes a beat that makes me whole again and in this moment as the vibe passes my flesh there is only me in my vein as it passes i wonder, was that the sum of echos that makes me be or just the raw essence, my thin kernel, my ego unplugged i let noone to see it freed me for a moment, it tormented me forever after, to pursue the caster of my shadow on this exploration, on the hunt for my very explanation it let me know that i was there there is always a sound, a note, a beat that resonates inside us that fuels imagination, inspires perspective, flexes our limitations there is always music, there is always me but only so seldom does it matter
