The Last house on East street

The Last House On East Street

Many years ago during the 1950's a murder happened. People said a woman named Katey Milousket was sitting by the fire one night when someone choked her to death with a cloth, then the murderer burned her body in the fire, and put her ashes in an urn somewhere in the house. People have heard strange noises coming out of that house. No one knows what really happened. Even until today it still remains a mystery.
