

The Path of Time and Memories

By : Robert Doust

Time has passed. Memories are still floating in the air. A permanent image will remain in young Robert Makise, a highschool junior who six years before now, fell in love for the first time. After making the worst decision of his life (he thinks it is), Robert is determined to either build a time machine himself or find someone who might be already doing it. His hopes for going back in time and fixing what he did will determine the world's future, as he also decides to fix any other mistakes he remembers along the way.

Published on Booksie

booksie.com/Robert Doust

Copyright © Robert Doust, 2015
Publish your writing on Booksie.com.

Table of Contents

The Path of Time and Memories Chapter 1

The Book and Notebook of the Time Traveler

The Past Must Remain Unchanged but...

Return and Miracle

DABC, the organization

Magna Flow

Mage of Time

True Identities

Blockade and Determination

Before The Storm

Decision and Time to Act

Edge of the Cloud Part 1

Edge of the Cloud Part 2

End and Beginning

Thunder

The Path of Time and Memories : Chapter 1

I have a hard time trying to remember why I was such a dumn kid that day. Why that was such an important decision? Why did I had to let it go? I was so confident that sheï½ll be outside the church so we could talk. Cloud was looking at me. Her green eyes, brown-like hair (donï½t know the color but this is close), her lips, unforgettable. In the end, I could only recall that specific moment where time stopped and I could feel only her eyes looking at me. Cloud was there. She noticed me first and the whole time we where there we never looked away. Whenever I looked, she was already there, looking.ï½In April this year, itï½ll be six years since that day. For some time Iï½ve been searching the place where I knew she lived in, unluckym I havenï½t given up yet. school bell rings and students head to the next period. Enter Robert Makise (protaginist) with best friend Lukai Gismo -Hey man I had a dream yesterday. It was about a girl.- I began the conversation, but Lukai seemed frustrated enough to listen. -Oh sorry I didnï½t listen. This dream, has it been bothering you lately?- he indeed didnï½t listen to the first part. -I dreamed man. I feel sad and pissed because of it. There is something about it that had troubled me since I last saw her.- I said, but Lukai again seemed lost in his thoughts. We entered our next class, which was Chemistry. There, I had a lot of time to think. Time for that one girl who could catch my heart and make me dream. Forget about life, every problem I had. I indeed love her. Cloud my dearest dream. I shall look for you without rest, or is tme so evil it wonï½t let me kiss you and not let you fly? My humming bird flew and I had to walk.

Chapter 2: The Book and Notebook of the Time Traveler

My life changed since I last saw her and I can say that if we talked at least for a while, this original timeline we are living in should be other. Professor Dзам, an anthropologist from Nevada who now teaches Physics I, says that it might be possible, so I started a teacher-student relationship with him, hoping he tells me more.

-Robert please help set the table!.-mom was cooking and had no one other than me to help. After the usual talking with my bosses, I spent time in my room, thinking on how life could be if Claudia and I talked. 3 months pass and Robert lives always with that thought. Enter a new girl with Professor Hiran.-Well then students this is Miho, she is a transfer student from Japan. Miho, would you like to share something about you so that everyone can get to know you?- he said.-My name is Makiazu Miho. I am 17 years old, from Biei in Hokkaido, Japan. (perhaps this one part where she introduces herself is wrong, but let it go). I love anime and manga and hope I can meet other otakus here smiles. Everyone in the class except for me, laugh, but Miho and I doubt that laugh. Sitting next to me she was, such a pretty girl around was a good thing. Lukai was the student who left for Miho to come. When he told me about it it was no surprise. We talked, Miho and I, about ourselves and felt good. I invited her to something in the cafeteria but she insisted on not buying anything. I ended up buying something for myself. -Miho, do you believe in time travel?-I asked.- Yes I do. Time can be changed if going back.-this one sentence was all I needed to hear. Will she help me with finding a time machine? Or making one?-Robert, I have to say that....my father Syan Vokoi, has written a book and has a notebook where he talks about what you want.-she said.- What?

Chapter 3: The Past Must Remain Unchanged but...

When Miho mentioned Syan Vokoi I thought she was playing with me, but it was serious. She invited me to her house so Syan and I could meet. It was such a big house in the woods, pool included. -You are Makise right? Miho sure mentioned me. We will talk about my book and notebook after eating.- I was excited to meet him at first. Syan showed such confidence it made me think he could help. After eating some lasagna and talking about ourselves, we began to talk. _Sir, I must say IÂ´m impressed about your work. Such thing I wish to know more about.- I said. Syan turned and asked Miho to bring some cookies he knew I would like, somehow.-Listen, there is a chance that time travelling could be posible, but even if I am getting close to finishing the time machine, I think it is a risk to actually do it. Perhaps I forgot why I was making one.- he said, he was serious. I answered- I would call my objective an attempt to make my life a lillte bit better. I told Miho my wish. She told you. I see it on your face. Will you help me?.-Syan said no word. - I donÂ´t know. as I said before, time travel is a risk, not only a dream and now a possibility.Nations will look for us, the FBI or even worse. Listen, if you interfere with past events, you might change something indirectly. Did you watch that anime? Steins,Gate? That is a clear example.-he said with a even more serious face. Miho came back with chocolate chip cookies. Syan got me. He knew I would like them. About when I mentioned Claudia, my first love, I nicknamed her Cloud. There is a good reason. - Robert hear my words, I will help, but there is something I must reveal about time travelling. if you want to back and change things, you will have to stay there. Remember that people create their own future. Decisions on important matters could change. You will merge with your kid version and will a kid, you will still be who you are.- SyanÂ´s speech shocked me. Am I really risking myself to that extreme? - I want to do it. - So let this world spin one more time.

Chapter 4: Return and Miracle

-Robert, I must say it is a miracle that I've manage to create a Time Traveling machine. I wanted to use it myself but you'll get the first chance. If it works then I also can travel and do some research.-Syon said. He was exited and ready to send me back in time. I had a week off from school, so it was the best chance to do some time traveling. I was getting ready, my family thought I was in Japan with Miho and her family. She was cooking me something good and enough for two days (exaggeration), if I couldn't manage to find where to stay, but that was solved Syon. He told me to visit him and tell him that I came from the future. I was in a mission. Midnight. Ready, mentally prepared, physically prepared, we only needed to set my destination. Fortunately, because I didn't remember exactly when I saw Cloud, Syon had invented another machine that helped people remember past events. Immediately the exact date and hour when everything happened came up and now I was able to return. After I could even notice, a younger Syon was in front of me. He asked who I was, for which I must say that I didn't know him as well as Miho. -Hi Mr. Vokoi. I am Robert Makise and I came from the future with a mission. To correct something that should have happened. The other you from the future did not permit this, but afterwards helped me. I told him, hoping he would believe me. -I know that. I know because of some weird reason closes eyes which I cannot explain myself.- he said. I was shocked but I got an idea why he knew, but it has to be impossible. If the future knew, the past will know. When it was time to go to church, I put some excellent outfit that would make it impossible for my younger version and my parents and even Cloud to recognize me. I looked cool and spreaded confidence and an aura of trust. I mean, I was the priest. With lots of time observing how priests did their thing, I managed to get to the end. I caught a glimpse of Cloud watching my kid version. Immediately, I approached her with another outfit. I was now her father. - Hey Claudia, why don't you go and say hi to that kid you've been watching? I bet h likes you.-I said.-What? Well, I guess I can. I will attract his attention then.-she said, I was totally amazed! She liked me! Oh I missed my chance once but knowing this, I had to help my kid version. - Your mom and I will be at the church entrance.-I told her, and changed outfit. I was now an old man. When I got to a perfect spot where all the place could be seen, I was looking at my young version speaking with Cloud. I could not hear, but certainly that was what I was aiming for. They talked and finished talking outside. When I saw myself giving her a good-bye kiss, Everything was worth it. The only thing that had to be fixed later was me going to a different church. My parents insisted on this because another church was closer to our house. That night I rested peacefully. One week later. This was the moment when my parents were telling to change church and attend a different group. I was with Cloud! To change their mind, I first made sure my kid version wouldn't wake up. Then I changed outfit. I was now me but younger. When dad and mom were about to tell me about their idea, I said - I don't want to. I think I'm better where I am. Also, I want to stay with Cloud. Mom understood and told me it was ok. Dad agreed. It was a miracle. I changed the past. Now, I have to make sure that I won't screw out everything. I have to keep my kid version together with Cloud. And maybe I could fix other things I did and didn't do on the way.

Chapter 5: DABC, the organization

I spend my time in the past at Syan's house. Little Miho ran all around and played with her dog Irito. It was a surprise that nothing is affected here by my stay. One day curiosity hit me hard and so I headed for my house, A great sight made me feel relieved and happy. It was Cloud and my kid version playing together. She was very happy and so I was. That moment ended with Cloud and me leaving to watch a movie, holding hands they were. My kid version did excellent progress. The rest of the day was calm and sunny. The city was as always and a good hamburger was my prize for success. -This place is so interesting. Remember when we were working there before DABC? Long time.-said a stranger behind me. Their conversation was rather odd, so I kept on listening. I discovered them. They were time travellers like me. How? Without been noticed, every detail about their conversation was recorded with my phone. -Syan! I must tell you something where are you?!- I shouted. Miho appeared and told me her father left with some men. Fearing for the worst, I travelled back in time to make it home before Syan left. As Miho said, two men came. They were those two men! -Syan! Run!-I shouted but when he tried to run the two men grabbed him and shot him in the back.-Syan! Damn Miho is still inside, I must save her.- We managed to get to safety. Miho was silent. No noise nor sound came from her. I knew something was happening that made feel strange. If SYan died here, wouldn't I be back in the present? This world would be different. Everything logically would be out of control.-I see you see we see, daddy sleep.-Miho was singing. A terrifying song that made the hotel room darken. The sky turned gray. Blue lightnings were striking. Everything went dark and then I saw nothing..... -After the worldwide blackout, electricity came back but the sky was now black. Streets known to be dangerous were feared so much everyone tried not to be close. Miho slept. I was completely different. Dressed in a white and red outfit. Seemed weird. Miho was dressed in dark green outfit. She had the outfit's hoodie on. What happened? -Makise, meet me near McCamel Restaurant now. Leave her there. She won't leave.- said a stranger at the other side of the door. I saw his eyes. Looked golden. We met at the place where he said.-You created a new world. Makise you....changed this world.-he said. -What?. I asked. The man didn't answer. I want answers! Tell me what did I do?! What do you know?!.....

Chapter 6: Magna Flow

I was taken blindfolded to an abandoned tower along with Miho. She was unconscious so I did not worry. The person who talked to me was lying dead on the floor, a pleasant disgust for my sight. A woman, known as Tempest Blow, talks to me while looking at Miho and playing with her hair. - You didn't kill the man nor did I. It causes me no pain. You are the time traveler I suppose. Your stay here at this destroyed paradise will be short.- she said.-I just have to fix the machine. I need no explanation about this place. All gray and pitiful. I know what happened but, I doubt my instinct.- I said to her. Miho was still unconscious and that was relaxing. The fact that I knew about this gray world is not impossible to understand. After watching many movies you can get an idea of why. Meanwhile I chatted with Tempest, back in the future where I belong, Syan was observing the great changes that were created after DABC found me. They knew about the project because they were trying to build a machine themselves. Miho woke up and stayed sitting for a long while. Tempest fed her. Syan knew DABC's leader Ridas Meki, whose gender is to remain unknown. - There is a safe way to go back to how things were after you helped your kid version. Do you know anything about Magna Flow? The process by which you change past events changing people's thoughts and desires. Just activate the machine afterwards. This Magna Flow is like a wave, like in the ocean, so I better move fast to do it good. I left Miho at her house, which was surprisingly in good conditions. Tempest left and with her some green figures that accompanied her. I crossed the time portal successfully. My best option was to jump from a building and wait for the Magna Flow to be activated by moving like a real surfer does. That might resemble something wave-like if I give it a thought. That will help me go back to where I was. -Fly.- said I voice. -What???? big explosion I appear at last in my bed. The room was dark and it was 5:57pm. A weird figure lies by my side. I clap to turn on the lamp and..... What is Cloud doing here?

Chapter 7: Mage of Time

Today was raining and many people ran for cover. My room was cold and there, in front of me, like a ghost, I saw Cloud. She looked the same way like she was supposed to look like at this time period, the same girl. The question was in the air. Was it her for real? If she is here, how did she manage to find me? - I can hear your thoughts. I won't answer any of your questions if you don't tell me about your presence here. - It's inevitable, answer or I shall make you disappear. - she said. How was that possible? Is she a mage or what? Well, considering the fact that she found me without knowing me makes it seem legit. I stared at Cloud and so did she. I got caught in her green eyes like my kid version did. - I love you. You didn't talk to me. I felt sad, you made me cry. - she said Emotional piano music plays (use your imagination) Cloud cries - I am sorry. Robert hugs Cloud, both cry. It was a magical moment where we were connected. A kiss and some hugs afterwards. My body was doing everything by itself, adjusting to Cloud's every move. Although by this moment she was still very young, she was a woman, the one I loved and still do. I lost great part of my hope to find her but, this, makes it worth being alive. - I couldn't be happier. You make me feel safe. I'm yours my dearest love. Life is too short for dreams. Let me live with you. Together we are like lightning and thunder, always together. One always looking after the other. - Cloud's words were magical. They got into my heart. This moment made me forget about my breathing problems and other problems as well as my secret loneliness. The day ended with us sleeping face to face, under a beautiful full moon. The next day I woke up and Cloud was taking a shower. I still wondered if she was the most powerful illusion. Everything seemed so perfect. God, perhaps, was giving me this chance for a very good reason. I thanked Him. - Hey Cloud, what are your plans for today? - I asked. - Nothing! - she shouted. The shower made it almost hard to listen. - Your parents know you are here? - I asked but got no answer. - I....am the Mage of Time. The one and only one capable of changing any event and play with time's structure. I can be here and there and I won't necessarily age a bit. Past, Present and Future are just simple words. - Cloud's words were amazing, As I expected in my dreams of her. I loved her even more. Noises Cloud threw the TV to the door. It passed through without damaging the door. Another noise - I think he's dead. The man sent to destroy us. - she said. - Who is it and why? - I asked but got no response. - Apple of apples, Clock, father of time, accelerate us both hero and mage to the wonders of thy fantasy land. - Cloud shouted. The room turned white. When I woke up, We were in a very different place.

Chapter 8: True Identities

The first thing I saw was kind of weird. There was a floating mountain and at its peak, an old man. He seemed relaxed, so we approached him slowly. He opened his eyes, stared at me for five long minutes and left without turning around. - He is that way, dont mind him.- said Cloud. .Who is he?- I asked, but Cloud was lost in her thoughts. - Oh sorry, its just that....never mind.. she said. We walked across a valley after floating to the surface.White tulips surrounded us and made Cloud even more beautiful. - I have longed for this Robert, the day I wanted to arrive so much. We came here to discuss something important. Its true that I'm a mage, but one day I will not be one anymore. You are the one and only one for me. The day is here. I...am Miho. I changed my appearance to protect you. This whole journey was what I needed, to tell you the truth.- Cloud said. I could not answer to that, it was impossible to believe, yet it is true. Cloud, or Miho, just proved it by telling me how everything began. Since that last moment, fate took its place and many things began to happen. My life afterwards, my desire to see Cloud gave power to my imagination, many other inspirations came one after the other. The most powerful of all dreams gave me strength. Eyes opened or closed, either way, I could see anything. I could express myself in stories.- Then, what now? Oh wait, how come you could change how you look? There wasn't any type of technology that could do that at that time, or at least plastic surgery. You must be from the future. Explain that.- I demanded the truth, and so Cloud spoke it. - How come I'm your father?! That is a lie!- I screamed, but Cloud remained calm. We discussed the matter for a long time. Not that it took me a long time to get it, but Cloud wanted to explain it as best as she could. Five days later - The Robert Makise from the future succesfully invented an amazing time machine. It is a pen, with which you use like this: you write the date you want to travel to and thats it. You can imagine some paper infront of you and that's it. The reason why he returned to the past was to prevent your kid version from meeting with me. He wanted his life to be as it was, so somehow he changed your thoughts and so you didn't meet me. It was amazing. What a power. - Cloud explained. She said more things likehow was it possible for him to know that I could talk to Cloud. That I would have changed the future. I don't get it. Perhaps, he considered it. He considered that it was possible because of something he called the "Time Beater". Something that could alter any event. A person could be rich in the future, but as we know, if interfered, that person might not be rich. There is a world before us and after us. I might have decided to travel back in time, but what about if my past version at the end ended up forgetting it. There are three worlds. Past, Present, Future. Not impossible. But how did Cloud get her powers? - I am your daughter yet I love you. Not as I said, but as your lover. Its weird, and society might not approve it, but I want this.- she said. Cloud was serious. As a man, someone who is opened to everything,I think...I love her, not as a daughter but my future wife. Somehow I ended up marrying someone else and had Cloud later. I have to investigate about what I did or will do. Robert Makise, the original Time Dreamer.

Chapter 9: Blockade and Determination

Blockade, a magical barrier that prevented me from discovering more about myself and the reality of life, is the one obstacle in my journey. With a powerful mage such as Cloud and the not impossible aid of that old man, the odds are in my favor. I prepared myself for this. My imagination appears to have no limits. The world is mine to imagine the impossible. Even the most powerful heroes know that a great power is one's doom. I was given this ability and can create stories as fast as lightning, or maybe I'm exaggerating and saying too much. - You are unique yet common. Don't become your worst enemy. Don't, just don't. You rely on yourself but you know best that if you think highly of yourself disaster strikes harder. I will help with you my power and the old man will aid me. He knows everything as the sky itself with its stars and galaxies.. said Cloud. She looked very determined to help. I was inspired by her words and thought of the best way to escape. There was an option. I saw it on an anime called "Zetsuen no Tempest". The idea of having some kind of physical presence in the time I need to travel to and go there, transporting my body to the presence. Since there is a body there, Cloud made it possible for me to only send my mind as it is. I know we could have returned to a point where this wasn't necessary, but it was too late. The prison won't allow it. This is like a chance, a gift sent through the ages. Preparations completed. It was time. Let the power of imagination show the way.....

Chapter 10: Before The Storm

I made a connection with my body from the future. Just had to concentrate a bit. Cloud put most of the effort. The old man did it careless. For a moment I was thinking that I stopped fixing mistakes and got into a problem that was completely pointless. When Cloud came, everything was changed, so I couldn't blame myself too much. - You did everything you could to fix your life. The fact that a paradox never happened its because this had to happen. You were allowed to fix yourself.- said Cloud, who was looking at the blue almost cloudless sky. She knew my condition was a threat, and that it was necessary for someone, specially me, to stand and do something. She showed me her heavenly body last night. It had a rare tattoo. I considered it amazing and unique. I was inspired by it and couldn't stop myself from watching, but Cloud's body made me want to touch it. -You can come and touch it, Robert. After all, I'm yours as well as you are mine. Our love can't be broken.- she said, while approaching slowly. Cloud is the only woman capable of making me feel like this. I couldn't talk nor move. Her body called mine and suggested a close encounter. I lost reasoning and fell for her. We had a secret, something that made it weird for us to be together. A terrible truth we had to deal with. Now it was time for her to send me to the future. To kidnap myself and leave Cloud with the rest of the work. Makise will reveal his true wishes to Cloud and I will modify the time machine. Some things had to remain and some had to go. But it was all for my sake and the world. Quickly, I was sent to the future.

Chapter 11: Decision and Time to Act

I saw Cloud leave and could not think about anything else. Her green eyes are so beautiful and her smile makes me happy. We were together as a couple even though we shouldn't. In this situation, its better to be united and supporting each other not compromising anything. But I knew in my heart she was meant for me. She knew my phone number by heart and called me whenever she could. Cloud went to France to retrieve a japanese sword her french friend had. Why? Because she wanted to have it here. I was planning our next move now that we are back. Cloud suggested that Syan should be kidnapped and interrogated, but that could compromise everything, so we decided to do it but, we had to pretend we were actual kidnappers. A horrible thing in this country and totally stupid, It had to work. Since in this country justice is kind of.... I knew we had a chance to do it with no problems- We decided. When Cloud comes back, we kidnapp Syan Vokoi (me in the future).

Chapter 12: Edge of the Cloud Part 1

I was the last one to wake up. It was Monday and felt like not leaving the conformity of our bed. Cloud whispered to me that she was going for a walk. Breakfast was served and I ate it while watching TV. After a while I took a bath and remained in the chair I was sitting on for a while. This is the day we are going to learn about what was really happening. Syan knew a lot of things, so I was confident he would spit everything out. Cloud came back and instead of sitting on the bed, she sat on my lap. Of course I wasn't wearing anything, just the towel. She didn't mind. She put her head on my shoulder and closed her eyes. I felt her breath on my neck. It wasn't bad. It felt nice. Cloud was warm and her skin very soft like a baby.

“I have faith that this plan will work. After we interrogate him, we will know why he planned all this. He knew that you were going to go back in time to find me. That some organization would come and almost cause a paradox. I fear an unsuccessful ending.” Cloud said. She looked sad.

“Don't worry. We can do this.” I said. She smiled but I wasn't happy about it. It was like a fake smile trying to convince me.

“It's not fake. It is real. Anyway, we should leave. Cloud said and left first. I dressed up and went to meet her at City Mall near the airport. We went to the Food Court and through the big window, we saw Syan's flight landing. We knew it was time. After having some French fries, we headed to the airport.

Chapter 13: Edge of the Cloud Part 2

Time came fast. We found out we were late and ran to the airport. Cloud blamed the delicious food she was eating. We knew that Syan's flight would have to wait after the other airplanes left, or at least just one. It remained motionless. There was no other way out, but I wasn't that surprised. We waited for Syan at the airport's parking lot, near some taxi cabs looking for costumers. Syan appeared at last and Cloud used her magical powers to get into a cab driver's mind and made him take Syan somewhere else. We followed, while Cloud made the driver enter a street that was very lonely. I expected some delinquents to appear, but amazingly none showed up. The cab driver awoke and Cloud couldn't control him anymore. He turned and yelled at us and shouted for help. He even attacked us. I got behind him and knock him out cold. With no more distractions, we began the interrogation.

“I assume you know me Vokoi-san. My voice is familiar to you now that it refreshes your memories. The path of time and memories has thought me many things. But this is what I want to know. Why and how did you know what you know?” -I began. Syan seemed to know quite well what was happening.

“Anyone else than myself would know the answer to that. Why would I know that Cloud was Miho in disguise, that I would travel to the past to find her. That in the middle of getting to know her, an organization would come and ruin everything. That I met a weird man and found out Cloud was a mage. And finally, the moment I realized Cloud was my very own daughter. Yes, I know how you feel. You swear your love to her no matter what. That is your answer, or at least half of it.”-Syan said.

He said it. What I needed to know. I understood every word, his feelings, his frustration, the sad melody playing in his life. Syan and I were the same flesh and bones. It was impossible not to understand. For Cloud, it was like she was the main character in our lives. The reason to exist we had. She was indeed. My love, my inspiration.

“Is that it? He answered pretty fast.” asked Cloud.

“It is. It ended fast as lightning. I can deduce the rest myself, after all, we are the same person.”

We headed back and slept just after throwing ourselves to the bed. Cloud kissed me and I did kiss her too. The night was cold and we slept like babies. But, what will happen now?

Chapter 14: End and Beginning

We headed to one of the many parks of the city and left Syan unconscious on a bench. Cloud showed a sad expression. I wanted to go back and take nap. Cloud sat emotionless and remained like that for a while longer. Syan told us as well that to fix everything, Cloud should use her powers to go back in time and prevent me from starting my journey. I could not allow that. I lived one of the most emotional moments and WON'T LET ANYONE TAKE IT FROM ME. But God planned otherwise.

“I think I'll do it. After all, we are meant to be together, we will find each other very quickly. I know where Robert lives.” thought Cloud. She planned to take Robert's memories and change everything.

“I know this is short, but let me get it straight. I won't go into details. Some things are best to be deduced rather than given. You should imagine and let yourself flow with the current.”

“Iâ wishâ for your complete ignoranceâ lâ.” whispered Cloud to herself. I couldn't move and Cloud knocked me out unconscious with a special power.

“My desire to erase your memories is half nothing. I can't take that from you. To think of your attempts to find me and how you suffered daily after every failure and me abandoning our life together as it isâ I cry inside. Sorrow within my heart. I will only take some things. You will only remember fragments but none are from our adventure. Let this be, our finest hour. Live well Robert. I love you and hope you'll never forget me. Byeâ for now.” said Cloud.

I woke up and it was still 2:00 am. Even so, I was happy to think of two more hours to sleep. It was August 4th, and I whispered “Happy Birthday” to her. I knew that she would not listen. If I could find her now, even if she slaps me for being a stranger and kicks me you know where, it'll be worth it. I discovered I loved Cloud some time ago and will never ever forget her. My childhood romance. My first love.

“I guess everything is back to normal. Take care Rob. I'll see you when the time comes.” said her.

The End? Or the Beginning of a New Life? Whichever it is, I will live.

So long life!

END.

Chapter 15: Thunder

My journey with Cloud ended in the way the resulted with my actual behavior and way of thinking. Women do change men. It requieres a great woman to change a man completely. Cloud was that to me. My ideal, my best dream fulfilled. Many would say that yes, I was kinda slow, but my dearest Cloud was one in the infinite. Perfect, no flaws that could affect my love for her. I feel like a real idiot totally deserving not to be happy until I find Cloud. What if she had a boyfriend? Well, I would kick him out of the picture and place myself instead. Also, I would hit on Cloud in a way she does not figure out my intentions so fast. I know many things about her, but what if I actually tell her I knew some stuff about her? Any reasoning woman would politely ask how I know, but some will simply call someone they know, usually a man, to defend themsleves. Some women are like that. Not being able to defend themselves, they seek help from, as I said, a man that could kick your ass. Anyway, I dislike women who believe they are like diamonds. Its true, women are angels, but some never could be such. For Cloud, I would die. As simple as it sounds. Why? Love. I love her, wish her to be my angel and guide. If I find her, no matter if she has a boyfriend or perhaps, because of this stupid country's mind, is pregnant. I will not forget her. Ever.

The Path of Time and Memories

Created from Booksie.com

Generated: 2015-02-01 00:56:54