Remembering Watercolors

The finger touches the paper and traces the outline.
Softly canvassing images appear of dusk and the sunshine.

A moment released to sighs
as she lingers on the grass.
A wistful smile that belies
those times she did pass.

Trapped here upon a canvas forever to haunt her mind
a glimpse through a looking glass of a childhood left behind.
