

a box of misfortune

a box of misfortune

By : relatetothis

helping you feel my emotions through words

Published on Booksie

booksie.com/relatetothis

Copyright © relatetothis, 2015
Publish your writing on Booksie.com.

a box of misfortune

I hear you calling but your nowhere to be found, I keep lookin around waiting for the sounds that lead me to you,although it seems im in a box with four sides, when i look up all i see is blue sky's ,maybe thats a sign? as to how close i am to you.Reminded of your eyes it's beautiful im mezmorized,I longed for your arrival and when you left i was surprised, at that moment like a star you shined. For me it was all the wrong reasons, for God it was your time. I'm thankful my imagination allows me to pretend cause in my dreams your still alive and i hope that never ends. Losing you made everything change,everything else went away but no matter what i say or do it's not the same, life is like a complicated game i needed a six and all i got was a two, when i get to the finish im still missin you,but I refuse to lose,although i didnt make the rules and winning's not an option cause karma's playing me like a fool. So i've learned to accept the fact that your gone back up to heaven right where you came from, like an angel you came down making smiles out of frowns, then putting them back the way they were found, january 8th 2012, the day you went away and the blue sky was covered with clouds the whole world cried and soaked the earth with rain and everything around me washed away but the pain

a box of misfortune

a box of misfortune

Created from Booksie.com

Generated: 2015-01-27 17:19:45