AOTW: March 25

You are now voting on the topic for AOTW: March 25. Since this is the very first edition, I will be choosing the topics to vote upon. I will also explain a bit about how this works.

- A

Every Monday, I will post an entry called "AOTW" followed by a date. The titled date will always be for the following week, not the current one. For example, this weeks post (on Monday, the 18th) looks like this:

Typically, AOTW will include an entry based around last weeks winning topic. Since this is our first, the 'article' is instead this 'instructional' entry about how AOTW will work. The format will be exactly the same once we get started, and the advice article will be posted where I have written all of this!

Topics will vary depending on voters. Every week, I will try to have topics in the register that apply to different age groups and demographics. The genre of article all depends on what type of active readers and fans we have!

In the next section of AOTW (following the break below), you will find the topics that have been proposed for the next weeks advice column! To vote, leave a comment on the entry. Topics are proposed by fans of LiveLifeAdvice, contributors, and any Booksie user who stops by. If you are interested in either contributing as a writer OR in entering a topic to be voted on, contact me by e-mail!

The LiveLifeAdvice e-mail is on our profile page, but here it is again just in case.

After the advice article, you will find the proposed AOTW topics. Here are this weeks, chosen by me to get us started! Comment below to vote!
