Dreamer101 â Our needs drive us to desperation. The more the needs, even more the desperation. Dreamer101 tells about the needs in her essay â i needâ !â . Chloe is a young girl, uncared and unwanted. Her dad wants $ 200 each month for rent or he will throw her out. She becomes a sex worker. She is unhappy. While on her way back home, she meets a PREDATOR!

Tarot â Paying a compliment is best form of flattery. And I must say, I am suitably humbled. I had written a flash fiction â Good Bye!â . Tarot was quick to catch on it and produce a worthy reply in his short story â *twenty years*â . Twenty years of marriage has the husband is fed up. He lies to his wife that he is cheating on her. And sheâ !COMPLIMENTARY

TheUltimateOverlord â Two stories are running parallel in this work. TUO in his novel â *luminarium infinitio*â has a young boy Sam, who wants to kill his cruel father. But before he can do anything, the father decides to pull the trigger. Rayne, a crook, holds a powerful rune luminarium infinitio. It fulfills his commands. He hunts for his prey and kills him. The prey is his FATHER.

CanadianIdiot â Well, to stand up for oneâ s rights is the best fight. Others will support you if they feel it right. But before that you need to support yourself. CI in his poem â â i fight!â â stands up to fight for what he considers right. He fights for humanity and to prove he is right. He does it to be normal and away from being formal. SELFLESS njonasfan â We all live between reality and fantasy. What is truth and what is a lie. What is our life and what is dream. Njonasfan in her poem â *reality and fantasy*â throws light on the two. The reality is very harsh but the dreams are where she enjoys most. And the brightest part of dreams is him. And dreams are what is left with her. ILLUSION

A J Emperson â Drugs never do anybody any good. Once a dopey, it is the end in life itself. The deadly effects of drugs can be read starkly in AJâ s short story â *reduppity*â . Riley is a rich spoilt girl. She comes to a party for no reason at all. She joins card playing. She wins and is given a new drug reduppity for in taking. It is FATAL.

Kaylynn Brookes â This one will tickle your funny-bone. Laughing is good for health. Even better than eating an apple. Rosie in her poem â *fred*â tells about this man, who tries to write a song. He thinks of various options â length, rhyme, fast, high or long. Should it be played on guitar or piano? Could the song make him a star? Undecided, he decides not to write. WHOA!

matmoo â This is a collection of poems clubbed together and presented as a bouquet. Matmoo in his poem â the vow â has nature as his background. Under the open sky and vast mountains, one sips the fresh air. One wouldn't mind dying or making a vow. He vows to ever love her. Nature is open in its raw beauty. And he fell in love with everything. EXOTIC

SnowBunny â What our parents tell us, we do obey. At times, parents don't believe us. What can we do then? Snow in her poem â words of my father â tells about her dad's advices to her. He wanted her to listen and to feel. He wanted her to enjoy life. He wanted her to believe. He wanted her to be guided to prosperity. He wanted her to DREAM.

foreveryoungirl123 â Loneliness can be killing, eh! Especially when there is absolutely no one to look forward to. foreveryoungirl123 in her poem â lost at sea â has a young girl, who is at the brink of life. Loneliness is her pain. She walks into the sea. Slowly she goes down and down. She remembers her friends and family. They had cruelly abandoned her. Her pain drowns her. TRAGIC
