Sound Ear

Does this place entice you this place called earth does your heart feel happy when a flower blooms does the patient heart celebrate times to come does all man need someone special in the land. Do we celebrate progress do we understand does life excite you as you progress in time celebrating the pictures in your mind. If you go to work do you need an ear to hear the instruction given by a co worker who is near. Can we always say we did our best today or can we express a pleasure we hold dear a time as we know we are on the right path. Bring to memory your special times as you reflect in your mind are they childhood dreams to you or are they when you held a child so true. When in life do you reflect the passion as life is so clear and when do you have life so good as you view things from a tree. Do you think life is about work and earnings or do you celebrate love today where no one tried to hurt you and you are free to be near without jeopardy or complaint. Do people bring you down or do you lift them up. Is your cup full or are you upset. Is the root of pain in you or do you feel it is them who bother you. I wish for you to understand the plan of life is in your mind and then your body will flow as you go doing what is right for all today. Adaptability is built in and natural consequence follows too. For the plan in my hand celebrates life in all you do. Why are so many miserable why do you express toil as you think life is rough your body suffers in disgust. If you smile in what you do or give praise for what you see your special place will be found accepting all you need to be. If you want joy come to me and give to others what you need and if a question rises up wait for truth within you to be revealed by my heart as we progress as we should do from the start. Let joy rule in your life and cast away all strife for in the end you will see clear as the world holds you dear. For they know God is true as He backs all you do.

Amen.
