

Mellisa and the path that leads to ...

Mellisa and the path that leads to ...

By : Harmonyandblakebookco

A WIP Will update in. Future

Published on Booksie

booksie.com/Harmonyandblakebookco

Copyright © Harmonyandblakebookco, 2015
Publish your writing on Booksie.com.

Mellisa and the path that leads to ...

Melissa was an ordinary schoolgirl with an ordinary life. If anything, this is an ordinary story. Well Melissa wasn't sure if was actually going to stay ordinary for any longer. You see, she was an extremely big fan of Harry potter and believed every word that was said in those strangely exciting films. Well Melissa wrote a diary and this is what it said. Today the 13th April 1932, I heard a voice, a voice in my head which said to: follow the path that you don't normally take. Tomorrow when u follow this path there will be a sign, read it and do what it says, after that i was told to scream which would kill the devil but would make the path haunted..... But the devil never dies... So I decided to tell my mum about it but she didn't believe me so she sent me to a children's mental asylum called st chlinton's mental asylum for the mental, so all I got to take is one teddy, a pen, a note book and some clothes so this is how I can still write this diary now. I just blame my self for taking Harry potter so seriously. Maybe if I didn't like him so much would this of still happened to me. I have now spent one whole month in this padded room in the asylum it's boring I have nearly run out of ink in this pen so there won't be much more writing in this book. I get one slice of seed whole meal bread every morning and one glass of water in a wooden cup and that's all I get everyday. In this padded room I also have a wooden pot with a lid where I do my business and a blanket made out of old potato sack materials.

Mellisa and the path that leads to ...

Mellisa and the path that leads to ...

Created from Booksie.com

Generated: 2015-01-28 17:29:23