

A Heart With A Hole

A Heart With A Hole

By : SilentStorm

Poetry.

Published on Booksie

booksie.com/SilentStorm

Copyright © SilentStorm, 2015
Publish your writing on Booksie.com.

A Heart With A Hole

A deep, endless, hole

Fills my mind

Penetrates my soul

It is as black as night

As deep as the sea

And never ends

So when I trip, I fall forever

But on a narrow ledge I land

There is someone there to catch me

But how can I fill in

The gap in my heart, the hole in my soul

If no one understands me

Needing someone to listen, without commanding

Or judging,

I fall

Because everyone will judge a heart with a hole in it.

A Heart With A Hole

A Heart With A Hole

Created from Booksie.com

Generated: 2015-02-01 06:57:48