Sliding into the path of temptation.

Sliding into the path of temptation.

Don't try and be all things to all people, there's sentimental value and there's mental awareness

, focus on your targets and socialise in easy company, into learning things of value about others, rather than feeling pressurised into that misty un-certainties That lurk s in the background

Â take a little longer into sussising out Others before making choices by looking further into situations before you commit yourself into any un-certaintyÂ

Â any tension you've been holding should disappear into a more practical and potential one, overlook those memories from the past , it's time to leave those lot to their own devices and focus on the future instead and don'tÂ become dishearted by what's not happening Deliberate a little longer and think of all the possibilities and put your thots into calm words to try and get others to listen

Â Listen of the people who's opinions matters, they are the supportive ones that talk by there own admission and talk in a straight forward way .....sometimes being patient works better than any pressures.
