

Like Rain They Fall

Like Rain They Fall

By : Distant Dreamer

A descriptive free verse poem.

Published on
Booksie

booksie.com/Distant Dreamer

Copyright © Distant Dreamer, 2015
Publish your writing on Booksie.com.

Like Rain They Fall

Like Rain They Fall

Round like a sphere

It is lighter than a feather

And moves like air itself

With its colorful shell that is vulnerable yet beautiful

The colors swirl and move together

As if the shell was actually a river of hues

Moving around a thin sphere border

These hues are never the same

No matter how many are created

Not one will look alike

When you blow them into existence

There are many floating like air

Spheres that are clear with a colored surface

Dancing and swirling with hues

Until they shrivel into droplets

Falling to the ground

Like rain they fall

Like Rain They Fall

Like Rain They Fall

Created from Booksie.com

Generated: 2015-01-29 12:08:50