A Simple Poet

A simple poetâ

By: Joe Attanasio

My poetry lacks the flowery feel
That many poets use for appeal
Complex analogies I have to forgo
Actually, how they re made, I donât know

Some poetâs true message they hide
They give barely a hint as a guide
Using words I have to look up to seeâ
Since I donât have a Masters Degree

Their description of a gain of sand
Twelve lines long and oh so grand
To try and compete with that
I would always fall flat

In some poems, I donât know the cast
The poets knowledge is very vast
Sometimes I donât know if their pain is real

Or my sadness they just want me to feel

I write about simple things we all know

I have thoughts I just want to show

I use words all can understand

No fancy word â slight of handâ

I try not to make them too long

I donât want to string readers along

I am but a simple poet

And my poems really show it!
