

Fire and Ice Sonnet

By : attanasio

This sonnet was written for Faux Clove's competition about the FIRE and ICE Antonyms.

Published on Booksie

booksie.com/attanasio

Copyright © attanasio, 2015
Publish your writing on Booksie.com.

Fire and Ice Sonnet

Fire & Ice the Sonnet

+

+

From a spark, to flame, to a raging fire
Transformed completely, from human to beast
Emotion moves from resentment to ire
All logic is lost, all control has ceased

*

Nothing matters, except what you desire
Ruthlessly pursued, with vengeance and hate
Angry; your violence will never tire
Your lust for vengeance, will never abate

*

I am apathetic, my heart made of ice
I do not care; I have no emotion
I have no reaction you can entice
Take your fire and go jump in the ocean

*

When fire meets ice; fire never has a chance
Once burned by ice; that flame will never dance

Fire and Ice Sonnet

Fire and Ice Sonnet

Fire and Ice Sonnet

Created from Booksie.com

Generated: 2015-01-31 05:05:58