true love is hard but love is always there

love is something special that you share it with someone you even feel it when you fall in love with someone love is great

but i really don't know the meaning to love yet my love is getting there im learn as i grow i would understand how love would work when i truely fall in love i will know but till then i need to focus on me love is so powerful that you dont know when it will hit you you can explain love its just there its a feeling and emotion love is what you look for and love will be there
