

Counter Blackmail

By : Destris

The simplification of a high school/post high school gang life. Also applies to many, many other scenarios.

Counter Blackmail

They say once you have a chip in the big game youâve made your safety

Nor do you have enough to be deemed a threat but nor do you have so little to be burned

Instead youâre set with their respect along with a sense of power and confidence but yet it is humbling

You then realize with no respect power is non-existent and one would be nothing more than the turf that is treaded upon

Though with true power there is no such thing as true friends
