the route to my heart

the route to my heart seem to have lost it's way to love i have lost all of me in this never ending cycle between love hate desperation trying to find me and the one i truly love for life i walk this dark tunnel to look where i am going but i can hardly see my feet to take a step what is happenin to me i go running and running calling out for someone any one i feel cold lost confused love has lost me all while i am feeling to scared to look back or go forward cause i dont know where to go where is the turn to go back to what i once knew i just want to go back but cant seem to find my route back to me i feel like such a fool how did i get here with out guidance or ground to stand on with out sinking in sadness but the mask i wear of fake smiles is fading breaking and i fall deeper and deeper into these holes and the wound to my heart get deeper and i wonder wears is up from here how will i ever get back to the love i hold so dear to my soul the real smiles that i cant fake the laughter i cant stop from coming like the ocean waves that splash up against me i am chained to rocks on a wall trying to escape the same routines i see everyday to venture new but what if those place don't except someone like me or worse beat me for being difficult or different i see no way near my exit yet still i am spinning around and around running up and down all while it get smaller and harder to breath i scream i cry i shout but nothing changes the dark place i reside in someone please just come get me before i lose my mind and just jump through these holes i see before me and where it will go i will follow only to find my light of which i see closer and closer til when i land and finally i see an opening and someone is standing there thank fully they come running and my dark tunnel doesn't seem so dark any more it gets lighter and lighter with each step we take to each other and finally i see my lover and my hearts darkness is over cause i finally found me along with the love i missed so much
