

The Fragments of Shattered Thoughts

By : Mistress of Word Play

How wonderful and easy life would be if we all came together as one.

The Fragments of Shattered Thoughts

There beyond the mirror's shattered glass shining brightly as a prism touched by sun the colors dance and cluster in a mass they stretch, contort and become as one.

Excuses are made to help distort the pain and praises are dispersed to endlessly glorify.
Here within the center of the working brain thoughts scatter and then rejoin to fortify.

When will that moment come to pass when the colors found in brilliant sun desert the shattered fragments of the glass and meld together and become as one?
