

Forever Faceless in the Crowd

By : needtobreathe555

Sometimes you feel as though you just want to blend in, in your own little bubble, and be left alone.

Published on Booksie

booksie.com/needtobreathe555

Copyright © needtobreathe555, 2015
Publish your writing on Booksie.com.

Forever Faceless in the Crowd

The world, as of today, can be a cruel place,
Where you don't dare step out of line,
Out of fear of being shunned and replaced,
Shoved in the dirt, covered in grime.
As for me, I prefer to blend in.
A simple wallflower - of sorts.
Not intending to go above and beyond,
Yet never coming up short.
There is still a small part of me,
Believing the world isn't so bad,
And that I can still be the original me,
Instead of this poser that I am.
But, for now, the world will be flamboyant and bold,
While I will become last season and old,
But happy, living beneath my shroud,
Forever faceless in the crowd.

Forever Faceless in the Crowd

Forever Faceless in the Crowd

Created from Booksie.com

Generated: 2015-01-26 22:41:26