Afflicted with Madness

Madness is pain

Pain so severe

it dulls your soul

and warps your brain

life - live

it doesn't exist anymore you do anything to feel alive pay women to choke you to make you half dead just to stop the maddening words running through your head looking down after their torture and looking how much you bled crying tears of the painfulest red not knowing whether you're alive or dead isolation

HAHAHAHAHA!

depressing, sad, budening , heavy, they're not enough words to describe the feelings in you that reside when human laws of emotion your soul does not abide true isolation is a scream unheard its just as sad

as a clipped winged bird

Emotion

the saddest loss of all not feeling anything right you stumble and fall

Afflicted with Madness

no one knows how much hurt you feel inside

They ask "how are you doing" you reply "i'm alright" LIES!

you're far from alright you haven't slept for days you've stayed up suffering and sobbing all night

Maddness is an ignored insanity that know cares to hear the voices, the confusion, the pain , the suffering, the loneliness, and the eventual death is what I fear.
