

Solitude/time space continuum

By : veltzhmertz

solitude is a poem trying to express loneliness.

Published on Booksie

booksie.com/veltzhmertz

Copyright © veltzhmertz, 2015
Publish your writing on Booksie.com.

Solitude/time space continuum

Solitude

Alone in a crowded room

A wave of noise â a wash of words

Reach my shores, the tide

Too late to catch, too late to grasp

Too late for it all to laps

Lips who have long since forgotten meaning

Mimic those who do proceed

A gaping hole, a muted roar

Their hidden meaning, once well known

A pensive stare in sheer despair,

for the sake of emptiness,

Now sought after in all itsâ grace.

Frayed and tattered ends, now sown

As one, fall through the fumbling grasp

Of the growing break in time and space.

But no single thought can be

Re-captured, no stray sound un-done

Thank god for the time space continuum

Solitude/time space continuum

Created from Booksie.com

Generated: 2015-01-28 00:24:16