Faites Moi Sortir

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

After a month of living together, I started feeling kind of sick. My stomach would ache at random points in the day and I would even throw up sometimes. Sebastian told me that if I kept on taking some medicine, I would feel better in no time. But this went on for a three more weeks.

Then it hit me, I knew why I felt so sick.

Sebastian headed out into the village to go but some bread while I stayed in bed trying to figure out how I was going to tell him about the problem I was having. A little while after I came up with what I would tell him, Sebastian stepped into the house with a big bag of bread.

"I'm back, A-li-son~!" He sang. Sebastian threw the bag of bread on the table and took a little bottle out of his pocket. "I brought you some medicine, too.." He smiled.

"Umm, I don't think I need that-"

"Oh, sure you do!" He interrupted me.

"Sebastian, I'm serious, I know why I've been feeling like this." I sighed.

"It's because you ate some raw apple or something," He laughed. "It'll go away, I promise you!"

"Sebastian, really! I'm pregnant!" I yelled.

He dropped the bottle of medicine and let his jaw drop. Sebastian put his hands through his hair and took a deep breath. "Oh my gosh..." He sighed. He bit his lip and kicked one of the chairs. "I'm going to be a father?! A fifteen year old father?!"

"Yes, Sebastian..." I scowled.

"B-but, I'm too young!" He claimed.

"I know that, but just think about it; at least you're not the one giving birth to this!" I said touching my stomach.

"Oh Jesus... What will we do?!" He cried.

"What the- Sebastian, what are you doing crying? Shouldn't I be the one crying?" I asked.

"I don't know..." He sniffled.

I rolled my eyes. What was I going to do with a husband like Sebastian?
