CHAPTER NINE

I woke up in my normal room. It was a little cold, and it was raining outside. I touched my eye. Sure enough, there was an eye-patch. I stood up and headed out the door. I walked downstairs and went into the dining room. There was Silone, of course.

"Morning, slut." She hissed.

"What?" I asked.

"No, nothing..." She sighed while mixing up her tea.

"What happened yesterday?" I said.

"Well, Hunter took you to the doctor and then the constables came for Sebastian." Silone told me.

"And did they arrest him?" I gasped.

"No... They just abused him until Sebastian told us why he stabbed your eye. And he told us everything." She was standing up now. I blushed a bright red. "Yup, he told us everything, from the first moment you two met, to the accident with the knife in your eye. Oh, and your papers from the UCA came yesterday, they say everything about you. I was reading it and... You're not fifteen like Sebastian. You're eighteen," Silone punched my face. "I knew you had sex with my brother! You slutty bitch! And you're three years older than him! Slut, slut, slut!"

I started crying. Silone punched my stomach. I fell down and screamed in pain.

"Silone, stop!" Marcie yelled.

"Fine, I was about to leave anyways..." Silone snarled.

She charged up the stairs. Marcie helped me up and hugged me. "Are you okay, Alison?" She asked. I shook my head. "Don't worry just go upstairs and take a nap. I'll tell mom you weren't feeling so well." She smiled.

I nodded and dragged my feet up. As I walked in the hallway, I heard crying in Sebastian's room. I walked inside.

He was there, laying on his bed with no shirt on. I could see scars all over his back, he was bleeding badly. I ran up to him and set my hand on his arm.

"Are you okay?" I asked.

Sebastian turned around and backed away from me.

"Leave. Get out." He said.

"But-"

"No, get out! Can't you see you've caused enough trouble?!" He yelled.

I ran out and went into my room. I just wanted to go back to the UCA.
