Moviestar Magic : Chapter 1

Chapter One

Jo Hayden was walking around school with her BFF Sophia. Sophia was about average height and she had perfect blonde hair and chocolate brown eyes. Today she was wearing jean shorts which looked ripped at the bottom, and a regular white singlet and another pink singlet with small holes all over. She looked really good, and she was going at with Michael Hell, who was one of the hottest guys at school.

"What are we doing just walking around school? Don't you want lunch in the cafeteria?" Sophia asked.

"Kind of, I was just walking with you." Jo explained.

"I was just walking with you too!" Sophia replied.

Sophia and Jo started to laugh and they headed to the cafeteria for lunch. For lunch they had fish sticks, orange juice and jelly in a cup. Sophia started with her jelly, which was weird.

"Why are you eating that first? I would prefer fish sticks; as you can see." Jo said pointing to her food tray.

"I don't know, I like to eat my favourite foods first." Sophia explained.

"Haven't you heard the saying 'Eat what you don't like first?'" Jo asked.

"I like it all, though." Sophia replied.

"Fine then, eat what you like least first, happy now?" Jo asked.

"Whatever. I'm eating what I want to eat." Sophia said.

Jo shrugged and continued eating her fishsticks. They only get fishsticks once a week, only on Friday. During lunch Friday is called fishstick Friday. On Monday it is called Meatloaf Monday, on Tuesday it is Tuna Tuesday, on Wednesday it is Whatever Wednesday, Thursday it is a huge selection and Friday you already know.

"Looks like I have to go to class." Jo explained looking at her watch. "Catch you later!"

Sophia smiled and waved goodbye and watched as Jo left the cafeteria. Jo was heading for her locker to get her Math books, she also grabbed a few pencils and pens. Math class wasn't far away from the cafeteria, but it was far away from Jo's locker, which means she usually has to quit what she was doing quickly before she goes to her math class.

When Jo reached her classroom and sat at her desk, she realized no one was there yet. Jo looked at her watch and saw that it is about five minutes before class really starts.

"Wow, first. How many times has that been now?" Jo asked herself. "I think it is seven."

Five minutes later the whole class was at their desk and drawing margins in their math books. Everyone but the teacher was in the classroom, the teacher is always late, so no surprise there.

"Sorry I'm late class, I was in the teachers lounge, marking a few last minute projects." Mrs Rose explained.

"Mrs Rose, when are we getting our projects back anyway?" Josh (Sophia's brother) asked.

"Tuesday, or maybe Wednesday, I know that not all of you are in all my classes." Mrs Rose replied.

Jo liked Mrs Rose, and she loved maths. Mrs Rose was one of the nicest teachers, but sometimes she is a little weird. That doesn't matter though. Jo loved maths because it was full of numbers, and she loved writing numbers, and she was good at nearly all maths problems. She goes to math contests with the mathletes and she is in honour classes.

When math class was over Jo hurried to the English classroom to wait for Sophia, her class ends in about two minutes. But some people can get early marks if their nice and good through class. I wouldn't be surprise if Sophia gets an early mark, she is like a teachers pet in English. Once I saw her actually on her kness next the teacher.

Sophia came out a few seconds later and said hi as soon as she did. Then we walked home together, Sophia's mum never showed up at school to pick her up so she came home with me and we stayed for a while before ringing her mum to tell her she's here. Josh is older enough to drive himself home, he is up to his P's in driving.

Sophia's Mum didn't mind much and she even said Sophia could have a sleepover, and they did so. All night they played games, texted each other and watched TV. It was so much fun!!!

Chapter 2

Chapter Two (Jo is I)

Today at school a new guy started. His name is Aiden, I'm sure I've heard that name before and when I saw him in the halls, surrounded by girls, I saw that he also looked familiar. He's in most of my classes, but I'm the only one who not's so crazy about him. Even Sophia was chasing him everywhere. Aiden wasn't so happy to find out that today was Meatloaf Monday.

When I was at my locker Aiden came up to me and he shooed every girl around him and said he'll sit with them at lunch. When everyone was gone he rested his muscley arms on my locker, slamming it shut. He stared at me with his perfect sea blue eyes and his voice was very soft and beautiful.

"Hi, I'm Aiden. Which you probably already know." Aiden started. "You've seen everyone hanging around me haven't you? So why aren't you one of those people?"

"I'm not that interested in you that's all. I mean I know you from somewhere, I just don't know where. So your kind of a stranger to me." I explained.

Aiden looked at me and smiled. "I'm a singer and actor. You've probably seen me on TV."

"Oh, great. That's plenty I know about you now!" I said sarcastically.

Sophia ran up to my locker all jumpy.

"Hi Jo, oh hi Aiden, didn't see you there." Sophia lied, her eyes were sparkling and she was twirling her perfect blonde hair with her finger.

Aiden smiled and waved. He looked back at me and his face was lost. All I saw was a sad faced cute guy that looked like he was going to leave any second now. I could tell he was.

"Listen, good to see you but I have to go. Later." Aiden said.

"I have to go too. Bye." Sophia repeated and started to follow Aiden.

I was left how it started, at my locker all alone. Sophia was choosing Aiden over our friendship and it hurt. Badly. I watched her walk with him through the halls. Aiden stopped in his tracks when he saw her, he was smiling but you could tell he wanted to be alone. His smiled faded and Sophia frowned, for the first time in my life I've seen her get rejected. Sophia still didn't come my way, she headed for the toilets.

"Shit!" I sort of whisper-shouted.

I sprinted down the halls to the toilets and saw one stall on the end locked, and a faint crying sound came from it. I knocked on the stall down and asked if she was ok.

"Sophia, it's me. Are you alright?" I asked.

Sophia stopped her crying. "Yeah I'm fine." She lied.

"I saw what happened, I'm sorry. I've never seen you cry before so I hurried, I mean it must be very important if your crying over it, right?" I asked.

"I guess, but I'm fine, honestly. But after I ditched you I don't deserve a friend like you." Sophia cried.

Sophia unlocked the stall door and fell into my arms. She was bursting with cries. I tried to talk over the top of it but I couldn't, her voice was so loud. I patted her back and walked with her to Spanish Class. She wasn't crying as much as she entered, but her eyes were red and puffy.

The windows to the Spanish classroom were tinted, which means she can see me but I can't see her. So I knocked on the window and smiled and pulled a few faces. I heard the whole classes laughing, and I heard a few footsteps. Miss Wilson came from the classroom with her hands on her hips.

"Is there anything wrong, Miss Harry?" Miss Wilson asked.

"No Miss Wilson, sorry." I replied.

I don't know why she asked because I was still in detention after school. So a bunch of words came out of my mouth for nothing!!! I'm in detention right now, not doing anything, you know except for texting.
