I DON'T LIKE THIS PLANET

i've been in trouble since the day i was born

"you keep your nose clean", i was often times warned instead i blew it and the judge did decree "we're shipping you right out of this galaxy" stuck on a spaceship with some other bad eggs they tied our hands up and put chains on our legs we watched the world we knew grow farther behind our destination was on everyone's mind the captain came on in and gave us a smile he said we would be landing in a short while and then he also said for what it was worth the planet we were bound for was called the earth

oh no
i don't like this planet
oh no

the spaceship landed and they opened the door we went outside and we were ragged and sore they went and left us with a hearty goodbye i looked around then and i started to cry it took some effort just to breathe the foul air some nasty chemicals they're putting in there the double gravity was really a drag i had a headache from the cosmic jet lag i take the drugs here but i don't get the lift i learn the language but i don't get the drift i have six continents on which i can roam i guess its true that there is no place like home

oh no
i don't like this planet
oh no
i don't like this planet

i hit the city and i landed a job i pulled a lever and i twisted a knob way over qualified for what i must do i feel so sorry for the human IQ

i soon lost touch with all the people that came i really hate this but there's no one to blame wish i could go back home to where i had been i swear i'd be the perfect citizen then one day things all changed, i met an earth girl just being close to her, it made my toes curl we started dating and i made her my wife and i will live with her the rest of my life

oh yeah
i kinda dig this planet
oh yeah
i kinda dig this planet

now i know
why they call it mother earth
why they call it mother earth
