By : Colby

This is more about me. I want people to know what I'm like. I don't mind not having feedback on these. Just to forewarn you the picture I have for this is of my best friend.

If You Want To Know You'll Find Out

So you already know my name. But you don't know how to explain what I look like. So now this part is gonna be a lil bit of facts rather than random assumptions. To start off I'm a blonde I usually grow my hair out during winter than once it's warm out I get a buzz cut. I am 66 3/4 in tall (5'6 3/4") I am 83.01 kilograms for my weight (183 lbs). As ya'll can tell I love being different. I'm not like most of my friends. Most of my friends are usually out and about all the time, when I'm with my family. But shoot you never know about someone unless you get the chance to know them. Like I assume what people are like based on how they act towards me. My best friend (M. Taylor) I first assumed that he was really strange because he was nice enough to give me notecards in study hall while I was waiting for my ride to my doctor's appointment. You never know what kinda people you'll meet. I am really hyper when I'm near my friends but if I don't know someone than I'm deathly afraid to talk to them. If you get to know me than you know what all goes through my mind. I'm not like most people. I have been diagnosed with so much that I find false but the doctors believe it's true so in my head I have the mindset that I have the problems but in my head I feel like I don't have them. I've gotten diagnosed with Cystic Fibrosis, Attention Deficet Hyperactivity Disorder, and Asperger's Syndrome. The Asperger's Syndrome I can understand because when I was younger I use to stare at license plates on cars and use to recite what they were, I still sort of have that habit but it isn't as bad as before. My newest obsession has been poetry, weather, and statistics. I love numbers so much because they symbolize something but I'm not sure what they symbolize. I find the creative arts as a great passion to have because you can express yourself even if your terrible at it but just trying isn't that bad, I thought my poetry was terrible but with the support of all of you on Booksie and my family I found out I might have something I'm good at. So part of me wants to be a psychologist because I read Sigmund Freud's Last Lecture.. Whenever I write I focus on the passing of my Uncle in January of 2010 and the passing of my great-grandmother in August of 2010. But we all are very good friends. I'm so glad that we're together to support each other. No matter what happens we all will stick together. But now you know a little bit more about me and my best friend too.
