Dear Dai

Hereâs writing to let you know;

Youâre a plant composite

Like a diamond rose

With golden petals

Itâs the cast of that specula

Whose reflection mirrors

In my heart and life

That shape of love

The lower case of M in graffiti

In red ink and 3D

For the places we used to sit

In the dark and cold

On carpet of concrete

Under the light of moon and star

And you would point to the skies

Descriptive of the beauty of wondrous creation

In language witty and well thought

In tones enrapturing and captivating

How you would walk triumphant

And majestic

Disney Daisy

Disney Daisy

Like some queen in her palace
Full of honor and womanly dignity
Recapitulating the past
Challenging the present
And so dissecting the future
With amazing accuracy
Precise eschatological order
And enviable aim
Your plans dreams and ambitions
Youâve got destiny

You remember that day I hope
How you sat down
And gave out a pose
Artistic and scenic
Of high quality and award-winning
Thatâs given a young writer
A thousand adjectives and billion lines
And so halved his nightmares

You must be gone
That I know
But how too soon
For all the promises I had made
This is all I would write

Disney Daisy

In the aftermath of it all

The cry of forgotten memories

The sigh of lost friendship

Sincerely, Old pal
